Description

Pencil on paper sketches, very crudely drawn. One drawing shows a standing figure with arm outstretched and pointing outwards, a group of figures are sitting around this standing figure in a circle. The second drawing shows a figure standing over another with the figure on the ground seemingly doubled over. A figure approaches the two central figures from the background. To the right of is another figure. All four appear to be standing on or near rocks or some other rough landscape. On the back side are two additional drawings. The first image shows a group of people looking towards the ground, seemingly tracking something as one figure is gesturing towards the ground; the second shows a figure riding on a horse in what appears to be a chaotic scene in the background.
