Description

Pencil on paper sketch showing a man holding a rifle peering out crack in the wall or door. To his left stand two additional rifles. There is another man in the center wearing colonial-type clothing holding or moving a barrel. In the background can be seen a ladder leading into a loft space. The figure the rifle wears a rustic-looking shirt and cap and what appear to be stockings on his legs. The reverse side of the paper shows two young boys. The boy in the foreground is wearing a shirt and pantaloons with stockings and shoes and cap on his head. The second boy is less detailed, but is seen wearing a cap. In the hand of the boy in the foreground is a stick or some other long pole. There appear to be some erasures on this side as there are lighter outlines of previous drawings.
