Description

Color drawing in a brown wooden frame with interior gold border. Graphite on paper. In the foreground of this drawing is a green pasture containing a horse, two cows, four sheep, and two pigs. The right side of the pasture has three rows of what appear to be miniature farm buildings. On the other side of the stone enclosure wall is a white wooden house with red roofing. Located to the right of the house are a well and six wooden buildings, all grey or tan except the largest, which is a red barn. Another cluster of farm buildings is set on the house's left side; again, they are all grey or tan except the largest, which is a red barn. A cow is corralled by those buildings and a wooden fence. Several trees and shrubs decorate the landscape. Text at bottom reads "Residence of Mr. Menzo Livingston, Seward, NY." Dated: October 15, 1897
