Description

The exterior of three wood sided buildings sit beside the railroad tracks. A man stands on a ladder leaning against the forward most building. He wears white coveralls and a cap. Beside him another, taller ladder leans against the building. An automobile is parked at the corner of that building. There is a loading dock on the second building, where tree layers of milk cans are stacked. This building has a small coupola and a chimney stack. The farthest most building is the rail road depot. A wagon sits at the side of the building, under a sign that said "Almond" Across the tracks can be seen trees/bushes. On the front of the card is written "R.R. Station & Borden's Condensery, Almond, N.Y."
