Description

Outdoor Scene. A view of the Miner Farm located in Chazy, Clinton County, New York. A large, expansive farm complex with large central barn and several surrounding buildings, freestalls and outbuildings. A network of pipelines (?) crisscrosses the farm. This network of piping may be for the transfer of milk to a central location. Various farm equipment is on the premises including a multiple wagons, a cultivator and possibly a small tractor. A watch tower is in the distance. This may be postcard #40 in a series by Henry M. Beach, a photographer of Adirondack sites and scenes in the early 20th Century.
