Description

Portrait of two baby goats (kids). Both are standing on something off the ground, that is mostly out of view and can't be identified. The kids are both dark and light colored, with dark color in the middle of their forehead and white around the eyes and nose. Their stomach and lower legs are also light colored. One stands looking to the left with its mouth slightly open. This goat has small horns, but they are not apparent on the other. The second goat, on the right, stands at an angle and is looking down and to the left. Behind them is a building, possibly an outbuilding for the farm. To the left of the kids is another building in partial view. A small tree is in the background to the right, barren of leaves.
