Description

A man feeds a dark-colored billy goat through a wire fence. The man, wearing a military uniform, holds his right hand to the edge of the fence. The goat has both front feet in the wire fence, increasing its height. The goat has a light or white patch on its forehead and very long horns. Behind the animal, in the goat's outdoor pen, is a small wooden structure. A large stack of hay or straw rises above the structure outside the fence.
